1981 URUSEI YATSURA

Episodes 1, 21, Special, 22, 36. The long-running, smash-hit TV adaptation of the long-running, smash-hit manga by Takahashi Rumiko, with a total episode count of approximately umpteen. You never know just what crazy thing Ataru, Lum, and the gang will be doing, but if it doesn't involve prurience, petulance, ignorance, violence, and property damage on a grand scale, somebody is probably out sick.

1971 LUPIN III

The Fuma Conspiracy

When it comes to durability (or prurience), Monkey Punch's master thief can give even Takahashi's creations a run for their money — and he does it in style. Ancient ninja clans? No problem!

1996 ESCAFLOWNE

Episodes 1—3 (long versions). Hitomi recommends always checking the track meet schedule for the word "dragon". Just a precaution.

1986 MAISON IKKOKU

Episodes 1—3. Takahashi-sensei's second mega-hit TV series... some folks have all the luck! (Not that Godai would know.)

1991 SILENT MÖBIUS SILENT MÖBIUS 2

Katsumi has questions — not least, what kind of a name is Gigelf Liqueur, anyway? Unfortunately, the answers all seem to involve bizarre but unpleasant phrases such as "Lucifer Hawk".

1986 PROJECT A-KO PROJECT A-KO 2 The Plot of the Daitokuji Financial Group PROJECT A-KO 3 Cinderella Rhapsody

The spectacular comic-action series without which we would have to call this convention something else. Watch out for Akagiya Missiles!
(Although the food may be more deadly...)
